ROYAL PARTY AT COMMENCEMENT BALL

... Selected queen of the senior prom last night in Bellingham High School, was Miss Cheryl Nadolny, being presented bouquet of flowers by Mrs. Anthony Minichiello. Norman Langlais was named king. Princesses were Miss Linda Fagan, left, and Miss Kathleen Berry, right.

Miss Nadolny Commencement Ball Queen

BELLINGHAM — "Shangri-la" was the theme of the commencement ball in the cafeteria of the Bellingham High School last night.

The cafeteria was transformed into a cabaret with pink and white streamers hiding the walls. A garden with white wrought iron furniture and artificial trees added to the background.

Thirty-one couples attended. A large cake, inscribed "Shangri-la, class of 1964, Bellingham Memorial Junior - Senior High School," was surrounded by miniature animals and it graced the table in the foyer.

Each table had centerpieces of miniature trees and animals. Another cake was baked and decorated by the staff of the school cafeteria and presented to the class.

Highlight of the evening was the selection of the royal court, with Cheryl Nadolny selected queen and Norman Langlais as king. Second princess was Linda Fagan and first princess, Kathleen Berry. All participated in the grand march.

Mrs. Anthony C. Minichiello, wife of the superintendent of schools, crowned the king and queen and presented the queen with a bouquet of American Beauty roses and the princesses with bouquets of pink and white carnations.

The judges were members of the faculty. Among the guests were the Minichiellos, Vice Principal and Mrs. Francis J. Flynn, School Board Chairman and Mrs. John E. Tuttle and members of the faculty. The Mello-Tones played for dancing.

At 11, the members of the class and their escorts left for the Meadows, Framingham, for their post-prom dinner party.

Langlois was chairman of the commencement ball committee, and assisting him were Suzanne Bourget, Miss Nadolny, Carol Fafard, Jean Fontaine, Miss Berry, Rachael Deragon, Miss Fagan, Muriel Goyer, Jill Peters, John Thonet, Linda Gavasso, Daniel Roy, Patricia Wong, Sheila Rudick and Claire Vadeboncoeur. James F. Ryan and Leonard J. Gauvin are class advisers.

Dedication

In his fond memory, we, the graduating class of 1964, dedicate this issue of the Epilogue to Mr. James J. Keough who had so notably served the Bellingham School System for twenty-four years as teacher, coach, and principal.

In those twenty-four years he gave to the students, faculty, and townspeople an immeasurable quantity of his intelligence, ability, and perseverance.

He gave us a feeling of just pride in our fine educational system. By his actions, words, and deeds, he gave us an example in both academic and physical endeavors.

He drew high respect from students and teachers alike for his excellence in the fields of instruction, guidance, and sports.

He instilled in us a sense of co-operation, understanding, self-respect, ingenuity.

He was an individual, one who believed and worked for what he believed in.

Within the following pages, we, the members of the yearbook staff, will attempt to describe the activities of this man, activities which so greatly exhibit his drive and stamina.

Memoirs

A graduate of Providence College, Mr. Keough began his teaching career in 1936. Of his twenty-seven years in the Bellingham school system, he spent twenty-four teaching English, Latin, Problems of Democracy, and Civics.

... Teacher ...

From 1938 to 1946 he coached basketball and baseball. He had always shown an active interest in all sports events.

... Coach ...

In 1959 he was appointed principal of the South School. After obtaining his Master's degree from Boston University in 1961, he assumed the principalship of the high school, a position he held until his untimely death.

A MESSAGE TO THE STUDENT BODY

November 26, 1963

This weekend, commencing Friday afternoon, November 22, 1963, and terminating Monday afternoon, November 25, 1963, most of you heard and saw on television one of the saddest chapters written into United States history. Generations after you will read, study, and discuss the events that you have eye-witnessed. From the assassination of our beloved President to the reception tendered dignitaries from foreign countries, gathered at the White House to express their personal and their countries' sympathies after one of America's greatest presidents had been laid to rest in the Arlington National Cemetery, you have seen so many phases of our history unfolded. No generation before you has experienced history in the making as you have.

Let us turn our attention to some of the lessons to be learned and let us carry them with us for the remainder of our lives. Starting with the first event, the assassination, we have seen the culmination or the final results of an utter disregard of law, of order, of rules, of regulations, of the respect for the rights of others. The assassin chose to live outside the law;—he was the law unto himself;—he took the life of our beloved President.

A little more than forty-eight hours later you viewed the ending of one who chooses to live outside the law. Surrounded by a cordon of protective police officers, you witnessed his paying with his life, outside the law, despite all the precautions the law had taken to protect him.

Unfolded before your eyes was the scriptural quotation "As ye sow, so shall ye reap." You saw his lonesome, barren, desolate funeral—his wife, his two children, his mother, his brother—unwanted and shunted by a people torn with grief.

Let us remember him and, especially, his innocent family, in our prayers. Let us never forget the awful, final price of lawlessness.

We witnessed a nation and the world in mourning—in deepest respect for the man who lived within the law,—for the law,—who gave his life for the preservation of his country and her laws.

We saw the funeral of that hero, appalling in its immensity, perfectly conducted, sincerity in its completeness. A tribute so fully deserved by a fallen hero. Let us remember him and his family in our prayers.

We saw the reverence and sacredness with which the final resting place is held by dignitaries from all over the world. We wonder how any American boy or girl could desecrate, rend asunder, wrack and ruin any cemetery after the example of its holiness, unveiled before our eyes. We saw the highest military respect paid to our President at his final resting place. What an example our President has left for every American youth.

We saw the Vice President inaugurated into office a little more than thirty minutes after our beloved President's death—the wheels of our government moving at an unbelievable rate of speed.

We saw political interests cast aside in time of stress, Republicans and Democrats alike, all united, rallying to the support of their government and her elected officials. They rose to the perfect stature of statehood.

We viewed the model of models in ladyhood. With a heart that must have been broken, with two little children left without a "daddy" for the rest of their lives, staring into a life of bewilderment and uncertainty from a life of bliss and happiness, she carried out her responsibilities in a manner no one would believe possible. She won the sympathy, the admiration, and the respect of the nation and the whole world. What an example for every American girl and woman.

We saw medical science prevail once and fail twice in the preservation of human life.

We saw what appeared to be the Hand of God making His final decisions over science. When one considers all of the physical elements that had to be in order for the assassin to be successful in his undertaking and how any one of a countless number of details might have prevented his shot from being fatal—one small turn by our President at that given moment could have resulted in his only being wounded;—how the Governor of Texas, just as open a target as our President, is recuperating now;—it seems the Lord wanted our President's life for a much greater and much more important cause in this world of discord and strife.

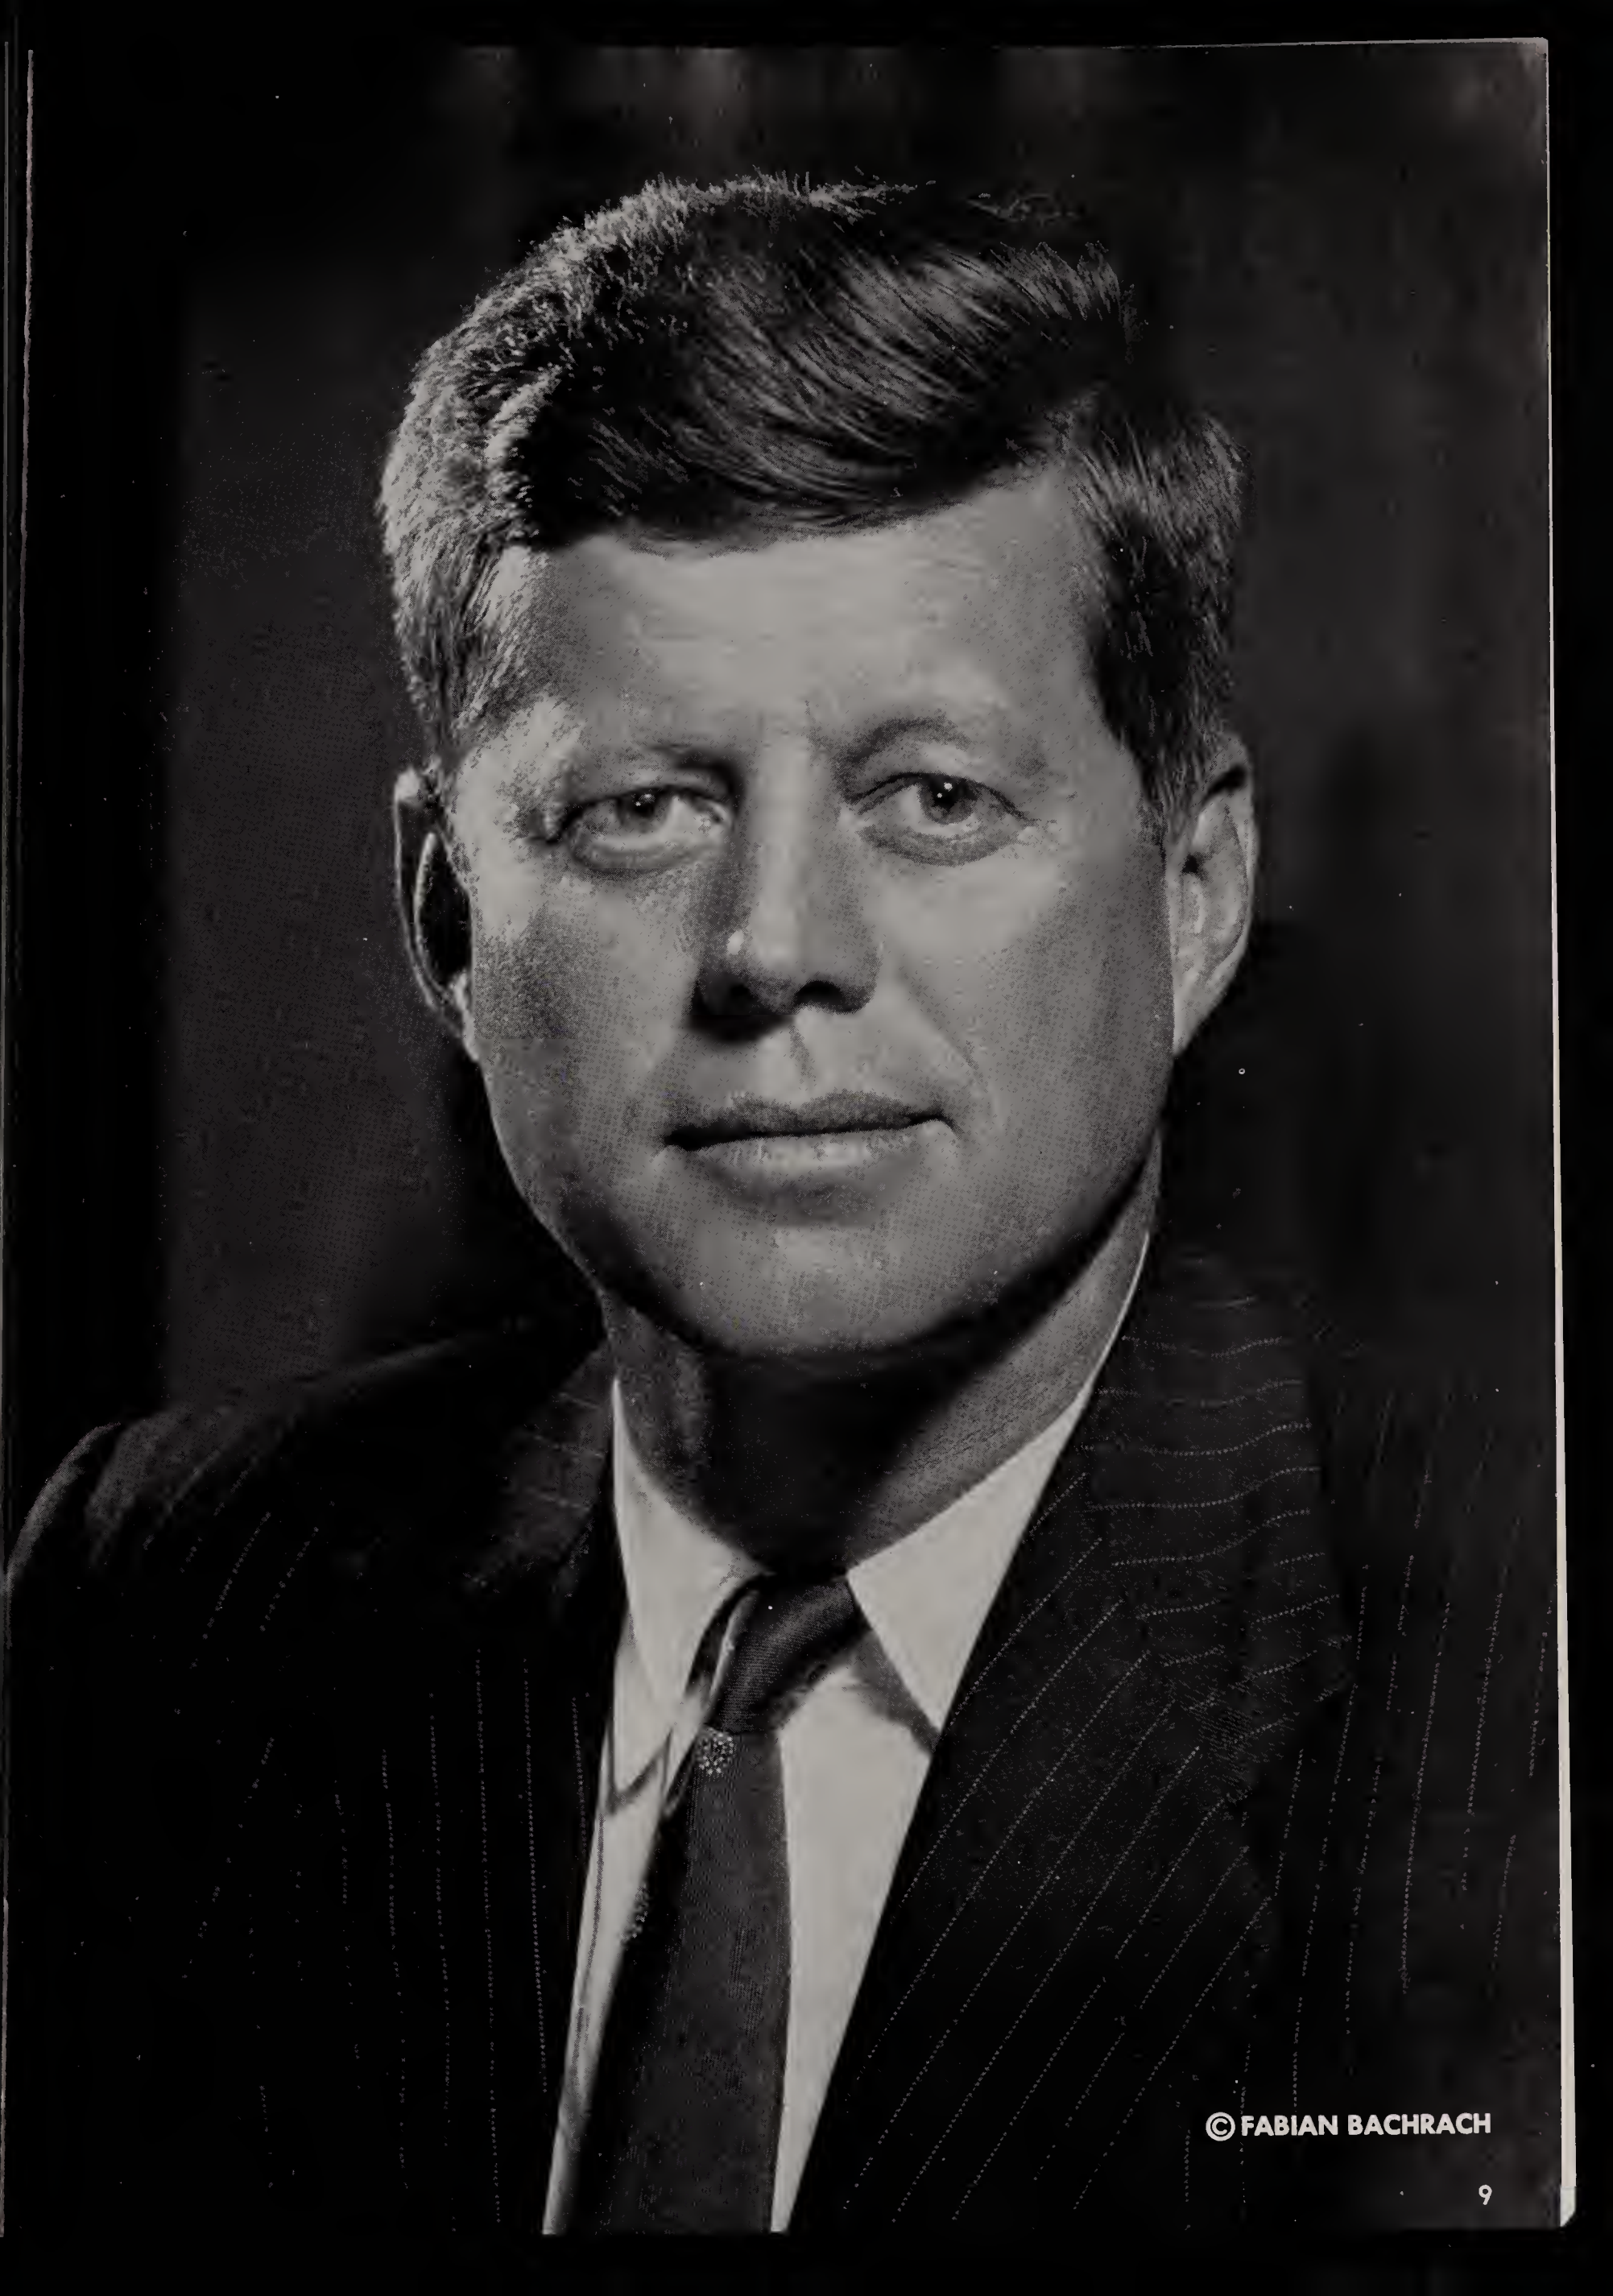

To us and for us, our President left his message: "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

He was a lover of education because he was a believer in education. He urged all of you to continue your education to the fullest extent of your abilities.

Let each of you dedicate yourself to that cause today and carry it out to its completion to the best of each one's ability!

Robert G. Ingersoll has written, "Ours is the only flag that has, in reality, written upon it: 'Liberty, Equality, Fraternity'—the three grandest words in all the languages of men." I am asking you to stand in your respective homerooms and sing the Star Spangled Banner before the commencement of classes.

Editor-in-chief

The pathways through high school are memorable ones. We hope that through this book, we have portrayed a span of these pathways to the future upon which each of us travels.

Education is in itself a wide and heavily traveled pathway. There are many folks in this pathway—each leading to some goal set by those who are traveling upon it.

Just as some roads are unpaved, so are some pathways to success unpaved. There are many rough and threatening sections. However, if the goal is kept in view, all difficulties can be surmounted, and the pathway will have served its purpose of furnishing a means of guidance.

We are proud of our faculty who are the guideposts along our pathway through high school. Without them our trek would be futile.

With all these things in mind, we present to you the 1964 EPILOGUE.

P. Brothers, M. Beauragard, N. Laurie.

For the first time in many years, the high school auditorium again gave echo to the voices of many amateur actors and actresses. Linda Bianchi and Marcel Beauragard gave our class fine representation in this endeavor. The group displayed their varied talents before a tumultuous and appreciative SRO audience. It is hoped that they will continue to have many successful performances.

Winning Ways

This year's Blackhawk cagers continued their winning ways. They posted a 17-4 record under the excellent direction of Mr. Flynn. Some highlights of the year were the following: Competition with neighboring Woonsocket, renewal of Franklin-Bellingham rivalry, victorious over Nipmuc and Norton, a Tri-County League Championship, and entrance into the Eastern Mass. Class D Tech Tournament.

Capt. Tom Tremba, Coach Canestrari.

1964 OUTLOOK

The Bellingham "Blackhawk" baseball team, under the supervision of Mr. Canestrari, is looking with optimism towards the 1964 season despite the loss of four of last year's key players. The reasons for the optimism are the following: solid pitching headed by last year's ace, Glenn Gariepy, the return of seven other varsity lettermen, and the addition of two promising freshmen and a crop of capable Jayvees.

The Baseball picture is not completely bright. There are some positions to be filled, but hitting is the big question mark. With some breaks, much practice, and good spirit Bellingham could develop into a league contender.

You'll do until we get the window fixed.

Class History

by:

CAROL FAFARD
KATHY BERRY

Now let's turn back the hands of time and relive many memories of our days at B. H. S.

As Freshmen: 1960-1961

Starting our four-year journey with 89 students, we were separated by being placed on double sessions. Under the supervision of Mr. Conlon and Mr. Trudeau we elected our first class officers. Results of the election were as follows: President, Thomas Tremba; Vice President, Maurice Lavallee; Secretary, Patricia Wong; and Treasurer, Claudette Lessard. Our first representatives in the Student Council were Kathleen Berry and Daniel Roy, representing the afternoon session, and Cheryl Nadolny and Ronald Champagne, representing the morning session. The first few weeks seemed strange and lonely until the Freshman Get-Acquainted Dance, where we were warmly welcomed. The ice having been broken, we became further acquainted with those mighty upperclassmen by participating in many B. H. S. activities.

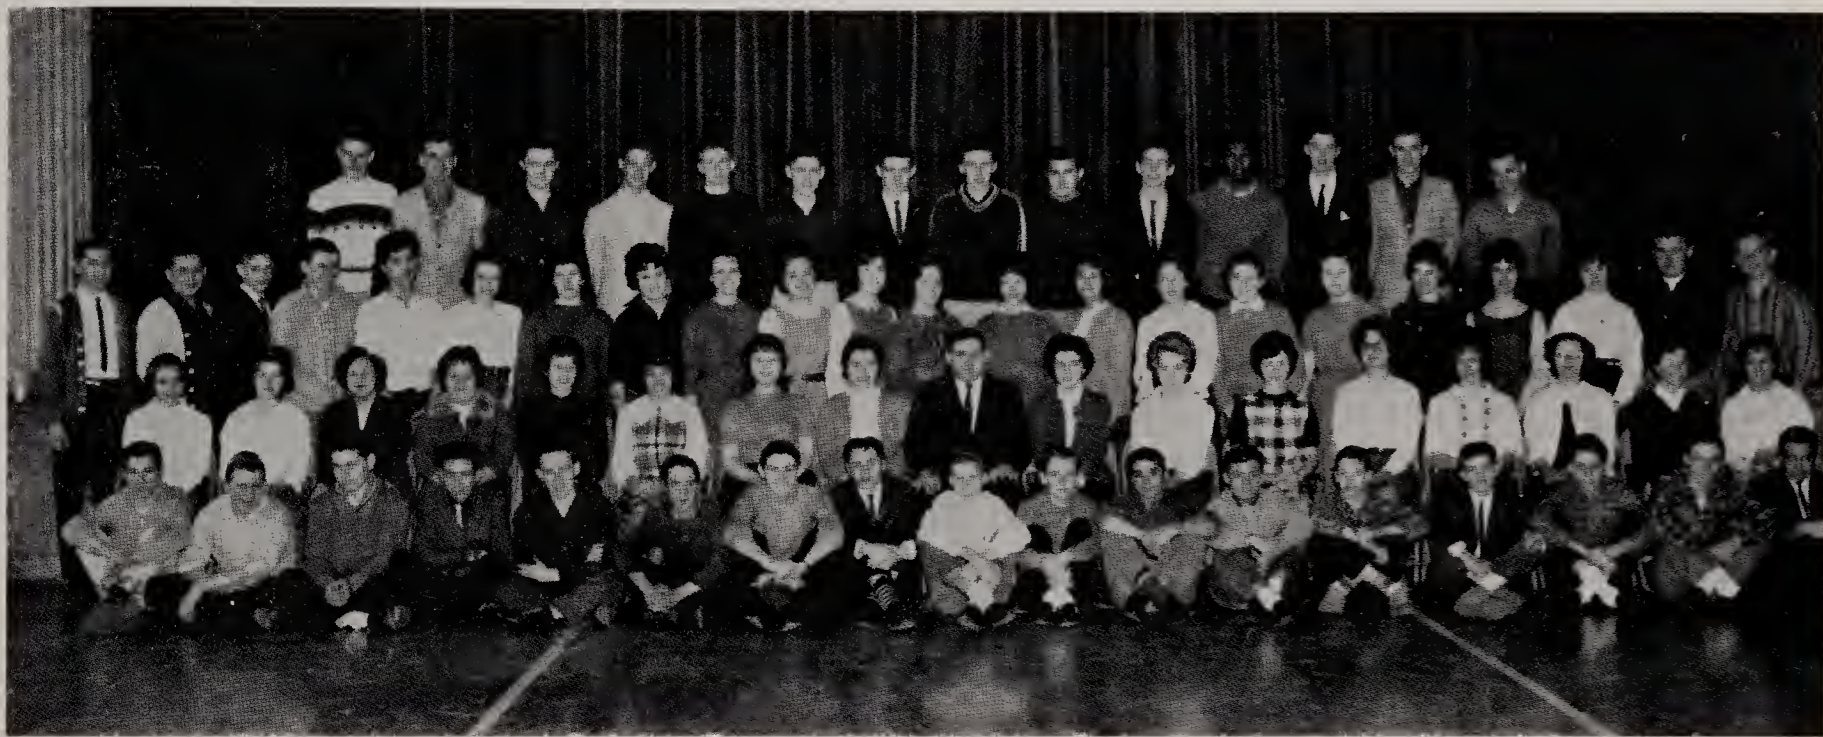

When February arrived we presented our biggest social event of the year, the Valentine Dance. Being a huge success, the profits nourished our treasury by a substantial amount.

With the mounting of many activities the remaining part of our first year flew by swiftly. Final exams, classweek, our first Nantasket trip, marked the closing of our Freshman year. Now at last we were Sophomores with 25% of our diploma earned.

As Sophomores: 1961-1962

Undivided we entered our Sophomore year, looking ahead with anticipation to the second stage of our four-year journey. Our class leaders were: President, Daniel Roy; Vice President, John Murray; Secretary, Kathleen Berry; Treasurer, Suzanne Bourget. Student Councilors Carol Fafard and Maurice Lavallee aided in preserving law and order. Our class meetings improved considerably under the guidance of Class Advisors Mr. Fleming and Mr. Price.

As the year progressed we received our first bad news, when we were told we would not be able to hold a Sophomore Banquet. Disappointed but not discouraged, we proceeded to plan for our remaining activities for the year, which included the ordering of our class rings and the sponsoring of a Harvest Hop.

The months flew by as we closely followed the victories of our champion Blackhawk Team in which our Sophomore Class was proudly represented by the able Tom Tremba.

A traditional Nantasket trip brought a closing to our Sophomore year. Another Senior Class gone and another advance of 25% toward our class destination.

As Juniors: 1962-1963

We entered B. H. S. as Juniors looking ahead to the new experiences we would encounter in the next two years.

First on the agenda was election of class officers and those slated were: President, Tom Tremba; Vice President, Norm Langlais; Secretary, Cherie Nadolny; Treasurer, Sue Bourget. Carol Fafard and John Thonet represented us in the student court.

A proud expression of achievement was proclaimed when we successfully published our first edition of the Student Voice. The profits of the Student Voice and of our Thanksgiving Dance brought our treasury to a satisfactory amount.

In spring, a Junior's fancy turned to thoughts of "The Junior Prom." Much co-operation was given in planning for the grandest event of the year. We will never forget all the fun we had decorating the week before. On the night of April 19th more than forty elegantly dressed couples danced to the theme of "Blue Hawaii." That night Linda Bianchi was crowned Queen and Thomas Tremba crowned King. Princesses were Linda Gavasso and Sheila Rudick. The success amounted to . . . many valuable MEMORIES.

As time sped by we had but one week left in our Junior year. We witnessed many of our Senior friends taking that important step into the big wide world and we too realized that in a year to come, we would gain our last and final 25% of our diploma and bid farewell to the security and warmth of B.H.S.

As Seniors: 1963-1964

As we returned to B.H.S. for our final stretch we realized that our Senior year would be a year of work and worries as well as fun. Elected to lead our class through the last difficult year were: President, Thomas Tremba; Vice President, Daniel Roy; Secretary, Cheryl Nadolny; and Treasurer, Suzanne Bourget. Upholding justice in the school were Student Councilors Kathleen Berry and Maurice Lavallee.

Our first social event of the year was the Freshman Get-Acquainted Dance, where we received the Freshman Class as warmly as we were welcomed four years ago.

Many difficult tasks had to be accomplished, the biggest being the publishing of the "Epilogue" which was based on a transition from our small ten-room high school to the new spacious Junior-Senior High School. In order to obtain the best results, we put all our efforts forward and spent many weary afternoons and evenings burning the candle at both ends to complete this task. Without the help of our Senior Advisor, Mr. James F. Ryan, all our many headaches and worries would never have vanished.

At the present time it doesn't seem as if twelve years have flown by so swiftly. Our Commencement Ball as well as the smiles and tears of graduation itself now approach us. We have reached our destination, our goal of 100%; and we are now well on our way to becoming proud, adult, American citizens immensely influenced by the knowledge and fine character Bellingham High School has instilled in us.

1:50 o'clock at B.H.S.

Prophecy

The year is 1972. Many advances have been made in science since our graduation from B. H. S. in 1964. Muriel and I are working at a science research center in Princeton, N. J. We have been experimenting for many months with a new electronic computer that can focus on any place in the world. We are now in the process of having our first trial run to see if our work had accomplished the desired goal.

Hearing an announcement over the loud speaker, we paused to listen to it. It informed all the workers at the center that Cape Kennedy was sending two men to Mars in the next hour. What an opportunity to try out our computer by focusing on the NASA space center in Boston, Mass.! We switched on our Machine and could only pray that it worked. Nothing appeared on the large viewing screen. Then, we saw a hazy picture coming on the screen, and on further inspection we realized that it was the main lobby of the NASA center. We focused the lens, and the large building directory listed these names: Roger Allard, Head of Aeronautical Engineering; Daniel Roy, Head of Electronic Engineering; John Thonet, Chemical Engineer; Kathy Marshall, IBM Data Processing Co-ordinator; and under the nursing staff appeared Claire Vadeboncoeur's name. We were very glad that our computer was working properly, and also glad that it had enabled us to view the directory. We watched the launching of the rocket bound for Mars, and discovered that John Murray was one of the two astronauts making the journey. What a surprise!

Now that we know that John is safely on his way, why don't we attempt to reach Europe? The Machine focuses on a T.W.A. jet liner rolling to a stop at Orly Airport in Paris, France. The door opens as the portable stairway is fitted into place. The stewardess steps out. The electric eye focuses on her face—why it's Anne Ambler! She is bidding the passengers farewell as they alight from the plane. Who are the last two passengers with whom she is speaking? I believe it's none other than Pat Wong and Ellen Finnerty, Anne's long-lost friends. Waiting at Gate 7 for an out-bound plane to New York is Kathy Berry, a foreign fashion correspondent for Vogue Magazine.

The machine abruptly changes location. A billboard advertising British tea appears on the screen bearing the slogan, "I'd sooner British tea, it has more of that Mark's tea taste." On further inspection we saw that the owner of the company was Liz Marks. One of her high-school friends, Amber Smith, is a Peace Corps worker teaching English in Spain.

England's coming in on the screen now. Linda Gavasso is there. She is selecting Shetland Ponies at a noted breeding farm since she is directing the Children's International Horse Exhibition to be held in Kentucky.

We transferred to Germany knowing some of our classmates were there. Sally Davidson, Gerry Marcotte, Gerry Guillemette, and Alan Gaboury are stationed at Wiesbaden Air Force Base since they are serving in the Armed Forces. Presently, they are being entertained by a USO Tour featuring Miss Linda Bianchi doing a singing and dancing routine.

In the village on the outskirts of Wiesbaden was a little watchmaking shop, the proprietor of which was David Rice. A sign on the door read: "For a small fee, I will guarantee, Your watch you will see, Ticking it will be, Repaired by 'little ol' watchmaker me!"

Gee, we've been so busy we haven't had a chance to visit the World's Fair. Let's switch back from Europe, and see what's happening at the fair. Why, isn't that the Universal Prism, which is the symbol of this year's fair? It really is as beautiful as everyone says! Do you know that Joe Menendez designed it? I heard that some of our former classmates sided in the construction of the fair: Normand Langlais, architectural designer; Cheryl Nadolny, Norm's secretary; and Louis Cooper, planner of the General Motors Building. Ray Lussier was in charge of the carpentry work, until he fell and fractured his leg. He was treated by the nurse in attendance, Ann Jolicoeur.

There's Linda Fagan, working as one of the tour guides at the fair. At the moment she is taking a group over to Dick Boucher's boat display, featuring the latest on boats and outboard motors. A rocket ship whizzed by on its way to the moon. Russell Peters and Marcel Beauregard are piloting these trips.

A marquee sign is flashing Bob Palazini's name in lights as one of the "Singing Bugs"! We also see that Tom Tremba's name is there as a Celtic Basketball star making a guest appearance at the Hawaiian Quarter Night Club. On further inspection we found out that Elliott Paturzo is a wild drummer in the orchestra, and that Eugene Sanchez is the manager of the night club. Eugene is now telling something to the head waiter, who is our "good ole" Fred Marzetta. Fred has earned quite a reputation by practicing his saying: "If you want to be served with great zeal, let Fred serve you your meal."

Sheila, why don't we tune in our high school town? It has been quite a while since we have been back to visit. We are hearing quite a bit about our former town in the news these days, since Philip Godin is running in a close race for the governor of Massachusetts. He is campaigning on the platform of "Put a good man on Beacon Hill, vote for Phil!" His political campaign headquarters is located in his office of law in Bellingham. We also see Maureen O'Keefe is running a nationwide beauty aids company with a major office in New York, and a smaller branch in Bellingham. The name of her company is "Lady Hair Inc." and her company's slogan is "Is it true blondes have more fun?"

Jill Peters is the owner of a hairdressing salon known to Bellinghamites as Jill's House of Glamour. Her employees, Sue Roberts, Judy Gardener, and Jeannine Mayer, have earned such good reputations as hairdressers that you need weeks' notice to get an appointment!

Speaking of successful businesses, Walter Chamberlain's Used Car lot is doing fantastic business! Johnny Bogigian is his head automotive mechanic, and Jackie Gabaree is his office clerk. There's Moe Lavalley working for Walter as head automobile salesman. His selling pitch goes something like this: "If you don't have much dough, but you want a car that will go, come see Moe!"

"What's that across the street, Sheila?"

Why that is Big Bill's Service Station, owned by Billy Forbes! With two fine mechanics, Bob Goulet and Dennis Rattie, he is proving to be effective competition against Walter's automotive repair department.

We are very surprised to see how developed our former town has become "the heart of the golden triangle." The bank that was just being completed in our senior year is now the employer of a few of our former classmates: Ruth Curll, Head of the Bookkeeping Department; Rita Beaulieu, teller; and Sandra Deschamps, clerk-typist.

Next door to the bank is Lucien's Insurance Agency owned by Lucien Longpre. Sue Bourget and Rachel Deragon are working for him as private secretaries, and Ernie Rochefort is his insurance investigator.

Tony Catalano is coming on the screen now. He is running an animal hospital, and his motto is "If you have a sick pet, bring it to Tony the Vet!"

Sheila, there is the high school of which we were the first class to graduate. Claudette Lessard is a teacher in the Commercial Department, and Sandra Wasylean is working in the office. There are the school buses! Bob Wilkinson is driving one of them. Oh, one of the students has fallen! Well, the school nurse, Bette Volk, will take care of him.

Quite a few of our classmates are working in the medical field: Jeanne Fontaine is an operating room nurse, Carol Fafard is an X-ray technician, and Pat Thompson and Kathy Tebeau are nurses.

Well, our computer worked and we enjoyed seeing what our former classmates were doing. Now, we shall work to reach a higher degree of perfection. After all, no one has ever heard of one of the "Tigers" giving up!
